I have yet to figure out a way to host a page built with node on a site built through Github pages, so I have a screenshot of this project to give you a better idea of what it looks like and how it works.

Todo-rpg is an interactive tasklist manager where you can add tasks to you to-do list and assign points for the tasks' completion. I want to add some animation to it so that the users' avatar moves across the map to illustrate the user leveling up.
